The Elephant Whisperers

Humans and Asian elephants have a deep bond that dates back millennia, kept alive in the Theppakadu camp. One of the oldest in India, established in 1927, it has a rich cultural history and tradition of elephant care that is unparalleled.

Central to this is perhaps the indigenous people - the Bettakurumbas, Kattunayakans, and Malasars, who all have ancient histories of caring for elephants for the kings, predating Colonial rule.

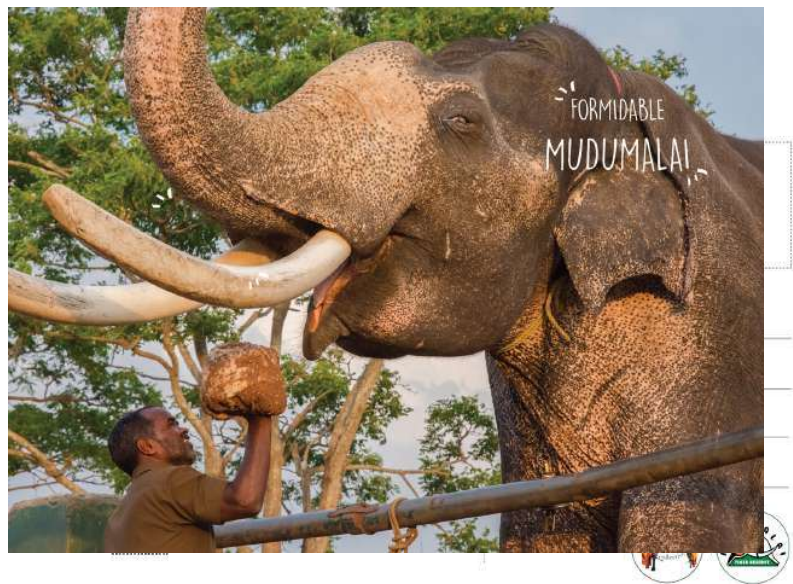

This series celebrates the mahouts and elephants of Mudumalai.

Free Willed Indra

Introducing mischievous Srinivas, gentle giant Indhar, grand old Bhama, soft hearted Santosh and many more camp elephants at Theppakadu. Know their other side as they interact with their Mahouts on a day-to-day basis with these post cards.

The Elephant Whisperers of Mudumalai

Elephants have been a part of Asian cultures for millennia as celebrated in the Oscar Winning Documentary – Elephant Whisperers. This Coffee Table book showcases the ancient bond between the elephants and their mahouts in the Theppakadu Camp highlighting their vital role in conservation; patrolling for anti-poaching operations, mitigating human-wildlife conflict by pushing wild elephants back into forests and assisting in treating and rescuing wild elephants.
